CHARLOTTE SYMPHONY PRESENTS MAGIC OF CHRISTMAS

NOVEMBER 25, 2014 | CHARLOTTE, NC – The Charlotte Symphony will present five performances of Magic of Christmas Thursday, December 4 through Sunday, December 7 at Belk Theater.

Albert-George Schram will conduct this highly anticipated annual concert featuring special guest vocalist Melinda Doolittle, who gained attention as a finalist on Season 6 of American Idol. Doolittle will join approximately 80 Oratorio Singers of Charlotte and the Charlotte Children’s Choir to perform favorite holiday selections, such as “Mary, Did You Know,” “I’ve Got My Love to Keep Me Warm,” Franz Biebl’s “Ave Maria,” and more.

This will be an especially meaningful performance for Doolittle, whose mother teaches in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools system. “I’m most excited about getting to sing some of my favorite Christmas songs with the amazing Charlotte Symphony,” Doolittle says, “all while being backed by beautiful voices. What an honor this is!”

To make this concert a truly family-friendly event, the Symphony will offer half-off ticket prices for children ages 18 and under.

Since its first performance in 1996, Magic of Christmas has established itself as a favorite holiday tradition for Charlotteans and visitors alike. Michigan resident Lindsay Emeigh and her significant other come to Charlotte every year for the performance. “This is the fifth year we’ve come to the show,” Emeigh says, “and we’ll continue to come whether we live in North Carolina or not ... just love it!”

This year, the Symphony is encouraging patrons such as Emeigh to share their own personal stories using the hashtag #CSOMagic during the week of the concerts.
