In an Effort to Reduce the Spread of Coronavirus (COVID-19)

LAUNCH OF #CSOatHome
A Free Digital Platform with Streaming Audio, Listening Guides, Educational Materials, and More

April 3, 2020 | Charlotte, NC – The Charlotte Symphony will suspend all concerts through June 2020 to protect the safety of its audiences, musicians, guest artists, staff, and volunteers due to concerns over the spread of the novel Coronavirus (COVID-19). The CSO is working to reschedule as many concerts as possible and will be in touch with ticket-holders as soon as new dates are confirmed.

Interim CEO Michelle Hamilton said: “It was an extremely difficult decision to suspend the remainder of our season, but we remain hopeful for the future and look forward to the day when we can all experience live music together again. The world may have changed in unprecedented ways in recent weeks, but the CSO’s mission has not. We remain fully committed to serving our community as it confronts this global health crisis, and we will do our best to provide joy and strength through music at #CSOatHome, a new collection of free digital content.”

Launch of #CSOatHome

While its doors are closed, the Charlotte Symphony will continue to share performances and educational resources that provide strength, comfort, and joy at cltsymphony.org/csoathome. #CSOatHome will be a place to connect with the Charlotte Symphony through streaming audio of past CSO performances, listening guides, educational materials, and more. Additional digital content — including videos and radio broadcasts — will be released in the coming weeks.

The Charlotte Symphony will also partner with WDAV on “Charlotte Symphony In Performance,” a collection of archival concerts hosted by Mike McKay and broadcast every Friday at 8:00 p.m. on 89.9 WDAV.
